

- Maybe an arrow or something could be nice to navigate from page to page? Horizontal scroll is not super common so people might not be able to figure it out
- Images are quite large, maybe scaling them down could help center the content.
- I really love the JS icon that shows up when you open the tab
- It looks really nice, like an art gallery
- Maybe you could add a footer?
- It might be nice to have some kind of horizontal navigation bar at the top of the page so you can move between the pages after you have gotten to the end of the horizontal scroll
